BLOCKCHAIN BASED METAVERSE

- ❑ Blockchain forms an indispensable component of the metaverse. It offers its users the means to safeguard their digital assets within the virtual space.
- ❑ The need for users to be able to own and sell their digital property securely, across platforms and without the permission of centralised authority, necessitates the importance of blockchain within the metaverse. It is, in fact, impossible to realise the idea of a developed virtual ecosystem without blockchain technology. Not being able to move digital assets outside a specific ecosystem, according to experts, significantly reduces the value of these assets.

SKYVERSE CENTRAL (SHOPPING MALL)

- Skyverse, offers businesses with one of the largest profit-making opportunities in the form of Virtual Retail Market and Industry. This space, with more designers and creators building things in the virtual world will be exponentially larger than the physical world. From an avatar shopping for a new virtual outfit, to individuals buying and selling non-fungible tokens (NFTs), the buzz around virtual retail, as experts anticipate, is only going to get bigger in the coming decade. Many businesses, across verticals, from luxury fashion to Consumer-Packaged Goods, have poured funds into building and creating digital assets that they can sell either alongside physical products or in addition to them.

www.skyverse.estate

- Different studies, moreover, have stated that observing a virtual hand feel a product, positively impacts the evaluation and amount a consumer is willing to pay for the product. This ability of being able to virtually 'touch' a product, adds a layer of relatability for the user. This, along with an enhanced 3D- designed experience, where users will be able to walk around and shop, is definitely expected to add success to a virtual retail brand.
- Young consumers, largely inclusive of Gen-Z and Millennials, are moreover the best target audience for virtual shopping within the Metaverse. This is a section of the population that has grown up with video games, e-sports, and spend a great deal of time socialising online with each other. They expect to be able to interact with products, brands and virtual environments. For these shoppers, the Metaverse, especially, is like a virtual mall, where they can socialise, hang-out and engage in activities like shopping, exercising, attending concerts and events. Their spending power, as they grow and develop their careers, is also rising. It, therefore, becomes increasingly important to cater to the needs and expectations of these generations with highly immersive and engaging metaverse shopping experiences.

They serve as a link between the physical and virtual worlds and can be used to pay for any purchase made in the world, including NFTs, virtual real estate, avatar shopping, casinos and a number of other digital experiences.
- ❑ SVerse also allows people to calculate the value of their digital assets in fiat currency and their returns over time. The liquidity of crypto on various exchanges around the world, further, grants investors the opportunity to benefit, by selling coins and NFTs directly to the buyers. Unlike crypto coins, tokens do not have their own blockchain. Many tokens, for instance, run on Ethereum and require cryptocurrency blockchains to function.
